Common Senses, by Chrissy Greenslade

I saw God in a flower today,
I saw God in the trees;
I saw Him in the butterflies,
The busy, humming bees.

I felt God in a loving hand,
I felt God in the sun;
I felt Him in my cosy home,
In warmth, in love, in fun.

I heard God in the whispering wind,
I heard God in song birds;
I heard God in the way you spoke,
In loving, kindly words.

God's perfume filled the air today,
In fresh mown grass and sea;
In damp, moist earth after the rain,
In shrubs and lilac tree.

I tasted water from a spring,
Fresh honey from the bee;
With my five senses I thank God,
For giving them to me.
